

The Secrets of Love

When we deliver our best effort to accomplish a job, it actually comes out as the manifestation of our love to our job. Without love you cannot deliver your best to anything. As it happens in our daily life. Whatever you do, love has a direct or indirect effect on it. Here I am going to put some observations about love which I acquired through my experience.

How love happens between two things, it is an absolute amazing question. One thing you should always keep in mind that love is always occurred between two objects. Love is occurred due to mutual looks, exclusive attributes and total competency. It always occurred when the love between two things happened. When love between two things happened, a new thing is born. If we deeply think about it, we shall see that love somehow attach to different branches of science, philosophy.etc. through the ages. If we talk about love, then we always think about human love interaction and never think about other ways.

There are different types of human love. These are mutual love, sacrificial love, complementary love, generous love, superficial love, eternal love, supplementary love, earthly love, timely love, universal love, professional love, suicidal love.etc. Different types of love have separate meanings and utilities in our life. As we are now going to describe these different types of love for our understanding.

Mutual love is the love between two persons on mutual consent. It is general love between man and woman. Sacrificial love is the love which made for sacrificing for good cause. It makes man next to God. Complementary love is the total love which makes a complete man. Actually he got love from every sphere of his life. Generous love which is the open-minded love. He shows his love wholehearted. Superficial love is the love which is used for fulfilling a purpose for own need. This love is very dangerous for the both parties. Eternal love is exclusive for special person who is not an ordinary man and his love will be lived after his death. A very few fortunate persons can have it. Supplementary love is the additional love besides the existing one. Sometimes it works for good and vice versa. Earthly love is the love for money, power.etc. which give us momentary happiness in our life. After all it is very dangerous to our life. Timely love is the love which is very much needs to recover a wounded soul. Universal love is the love for mankind. Professional love is the love which is used for earning money. Suicidal love is the love which makes someone to commit suicide for any purpose. In this paragraph I have just mention a couple of different types of love in our life but if you observe keenly you can also coin another types of love through your own feelings.

Love is the source of the mankind. Without love, our mothers do not carry us in their wombs and we are still unborn. Love is the bond of our society. When love shows its strength in our human bond, it makes us unbreakable in our adversity. Love is never be one sided and it should be two sided always. As you like to get love from someone and you have to give love to someone also. Love always depends on trust, cooperation, mutual understanding and mutual respect.

In science, every formula is built on love. It always maintains trust, cooperation, mutual understanding and mutual respect. If we look closely with our keen vision, we will see that every formula is created with a lot letters and integers. They cannot make a formula unless they obey the rules of love. Every formula is the art of love and its formation always depends on the magic sequences which are ultimately depending on love. The more powerful formula is the more powerful manifestation of love.

If we look at our solar system, we will see that every planet is interlinked with each other. It is a kind of love which we called it planetary love. Generally they do not come out from their own orbits. When it happens, we think they lost their love to their family. They have the longest family tie (about billion years) than human being. If we study their family bond through keen observations, we can achieve a lot of vital information which we can use it to solve our family problems.

There are a lot of examples for justifying the roles of love in our daily life as here I have given some examples and lot of examples to be provided by you through your imaginations.
