

The Secrets of Money

In the olden days of human civilization, the medium for business transactions were based on barter system which was basically a give-take policy. But there was a great difficulty to store something for future need. So the concept of money was born. Today money is the ultimate choice of our life. Nowadays it is the main concern of our livelihood. We cannot think about our life without it.

To make money in life, you need not luck but you need good planning about it. Money is always earned by hard work, perseverance and patient. In modern world, everybody is running for money but how many people are getting their dream money. It is true that only a thousand of men have got their dream money and make them world's richest men. But you may think that they become richest men due to their good fortune. If you look at their life you will see that when they start their business which was a very humble beginning and later they turned it into a big one. One thing which is very much important to say that they are all literate persons and their education helped them to make perfect planning for their business. So in today's world education is must for everybody who likes to make good planning and ultimately help them to achieve their dream money.

Money and crime are interrelated in our life. Money should have a limit in our life in such a way that it cannot eat us in its own way. If it exceeds its limit then we get in trap of crime. It happens automatically without our knowledge. Due to lack of money, so many dreams were shattered and so many dreams were destroyed due to abundance of money. Money is self-inflicted tool which can destroy anybody who does not have any respect about it. If you respect your money, it will also respect you. Sometimes we see that few people are using money as their domestic animal to fulfill their wish. It is a kind of disease which ultimately destroys the man.

Money has a peculiar characteristic that when you have ample money your sleep is gone and also when you have less money your sleep is gone. This characteristic makes man for need of constant money supply in life. Money is volatile in nature and it can vanish quickly unless you keep it tightly in your possession. Money always gives you temporary happiness and makes you restless throughout your life. Money which comes to you slowly and steadily it will be long-lasting and which comes to you quickly it will leave you quickly. When you keep money for your future need, it takes very long time to make it double so you have to be patient for it. When you are hankering for more money and running for it, money will play look and hide with you as if you are grasping it. How much you have earned throughout your life which will be counted as if you have enough money to perform your funeral and it will be your respect to your money itself. So if we can use money in wise way who knows one day it can bring permanent happiness in our life.
